MRS. CRANE FAILS TO PROVE CHARGE

For pale people" than do about the simple rules of personal hygiene. It was the striking way in which he put it. He advocated a systematic and business-like campaign of advertising to make the people familiar with the rules of health as they are with other widely advertised articles.

Must Arouse Public Attention.

"It is the duty of the association," he argued, "to call public attention to the fact that disease germs cause the death of 50 per cent. of human beings, a sinful sacrifice almost wholly needless. We must keep everlastingly at it in every field of publicity."

"We must make the children of the country as familiar with the dog listening to 'his master's voice.' We must do more than attract attention. We must convince and create a demand for clean streets, clean water, clean milk, clean factories, fresh air and sunlight. We must use specific local facts to obtain local results, until an enlightened and aroused public sentiment demands that conditions be improved. While our publicity should be within the bounds of truth and morality, it should be wise and limited only by its ability to get results."

Dr. Herbert D. Pease, of New York City, read a paper on the "Scope and Value of Lectures," in which he urged a simplicity of statement, with clear lines marking the known, the unknown and the debatable. The manner of expression, he said, might be undignified, but it must be informing and intelligent. He made a vigorous point against any health lecturer speaking on tuberculosis, cancer, and other diseases, as one who was stultifying his own remarks.

Schools Should Be Models.

A paper prepared by Miss Isobel F. Hyam, president of the Louise Alcott Club, of Dorchester, Mass., was read in her absence by Miss Swartz, daughter of the president.

The paper took the ground that since the State had taken over the responsibility of education of children, it is responsible both for the development of mind and body, that school-rooms should be models of cleanliness to set an example to the young, and that it is hardly worth while to teach hygiene in a dusty and unsanitary room.

Professor John W. Rich, of William and Mary College at Williamsburg, read a paper on "School Instruction in Hygiene and Sanitation," in which he declared he was dealing with the problem not of the ideal school, and the ideal teacher, but of the ordinary every day conditions of the school. He declared that the school should be a model of clean living and the value of vaccination and the antitoxins. The result, he declared, would be a decided effect in the education of parents, and that the public drinking cup, and other sanitary features of the public school would then disappear under pressure of public sentiment. In discussing the teaching of hygiene, he called attention to the overworking of teachers, declaring that the State was going out to prevent the overworking of women in factories, and were themselves overworking them in schools, adding that a woman killed in school teaching is as dead as one killed in a factory.

Training of Teachers.

A paper on the instruction of hygiene in normal schools, suggesting the importance of training the teacher before the teacher could be expected to give the average child health instruction to the child, prepared by Dr. Adrian de Garay, of Mexico City, was read by the interpreter, Mr. Lacalle. The paper was an argument for making hygiene one of the principal topics taught in normal schools.

Dr. F. F. Westbrook, of the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, presented a paper on "Instruction in Personal and Public Hygiene in the Medical College," in which he claimed that the average medical college graduate was far from being equipped to advise his patients and community on sanitary and health measures. He took the ground that various eating, clothing and other health fads, Christian Science, osteopathy, and other things were the result of a popular uprising for more knowledge of human ailments and their prevention, a protest against the policy of isolation inculcated in physicians.

Minute Home Study.

In the general discussion which followed speakers took the ground that the school authorities should eliminate the home lessons, and that five or six hours in school be long enough for any growing child to spend in study.

President Swartz closed the debate with advocacy of education of the public along all lines from the young children in the schools in the simple rules of health to the adult.

"We wish the public to live in certain ways for its own betterment," he said. Yet we lack the means of teaching. There is a vacuum of knowledge where we have the best opportunity to help the children in the schools, continuing and working with teachers in normal schools, and with medical students.

"When the physician does not know that sewer gas infection is an exploded bubble, and that about his disinfecting bottle while his patient goes about infecting others, what are we going to do? Teaching of simple sanitation and hygiene in all lines is, I think, the only hope of making substantial progress."

Liquor People Get Injunction.

GUTHRIE, OKLA., October 21.—Federal Judge Cotter to-day, on petition of S. W. Stone, State dispensary superintendent, granted a temporary order, restraining S. W. Stone, State dispensary superintendent, from interfering with the operation of the State dispensary at Guthrie, Oklahoma. The case is set for hearing at Guthrie, October 28.

The action is taken to prevent an unusual activity by State enforcement officers at Oklahoma City and other places.

Those Corpuscles

In your blood, red and white, keep you well if they are healthy, cause you sickness if diseased.

To make and keep them abundant and healthy, is to have pure blood, freedom from disease and vigorous health.

The chief purpose of Hood's Sarsaparilla is to do this, and its success is attested by thousands of wonderful cures. Cures of all blood diseases, scrofula, eczema, rheumatism, catarrh, etc. It today in the usual liquid form or in the famous tablet form called Sarsaparilla.

COLD SHOULDER FOR TAFT

Board of Trade Angry Because of Brief Stay in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ga., October 21.—Following a heated discussion, the Columbus Board of Trade, by an overwhelming vote, to-night tabled a resolution providing that the board meet and formally welcome President Taft when he arrives here on the night of November 3. This action is due to the fact that the President's party is scheduled for only a ten-minute stop here.

On three different occasions a committee representing the Board of Trade visited the President and extended to him an invitation to visit Columbus, calling on him at Augusta, Va., on the occasion of the last visit to the President, when assurances were given that the Chief Magistrate would include Columbus in his Southern itinerary, the people of this thriving manufacturing city were overjoyed and preparations were at once begun for an elaborate entertainment of the President. When the schedule of the trip was issued, showing a ten-minute stop here, indignation was aroused.

Marked the close of the convention of the Board of Trade to let the President's visit be without official recognition from that body.

It is not unlikely, however, that the President will be warmly welcomed by a throng of citizens who will be glad of even the opportunity of getting a look at the nation's head.

Wade H. Ellis Thinks Antitrust Law Too Strict.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 21.—Declaring the antitrust law to be so difficult of comprehension as to puzzle even the most expert lawyers, Attorney-General of the United States today the delegates to the Carriage Builders' National Association to-night at Washington, D. C., to let the President's visit be without official recognition from that body.

Mr. Ellis was one of the principal speakers at a banquet which was given at the Hotel Hamilton, among the other speakers being H. H. Taylor, former minister to Spain, and Charles E. Newell, chief of the reclamation service.

"DIVINE REEFER" CAN'T HEAL HIMSELF

Man Claiming to Cure Ills by Divine Power Found Dead in Hotel.

HASTINGS, NEB., October 21.—Chas. M. Schiatter, an elderly man, known as a "divine reefer," who claimed to cure all ills by divine power, was found dead in a room at a local hotel to-day.

Merely an Immitator.

ST. LOUIS, MO., October 21.—According to local records, the man found dead in Hastings, Neb., to-day, is Charles McLean, who has posed in various places as Francis Schiatter, the original "divine reefer." He had been in Hastings for a few years, the first styled divine reefer. Schiatter, after gaining a great reputation as a healer in Denver and other cities, was found dead in a room at a local hotel to-day.

Shortly after Francis Schiatter's death, a man of similar appearance and methods, calling himself Francis Schiatter, began traveling about the country, claiming to heal the sick by divine power.

In May, 1903, a man who is believed to have been McLean, appeared in St. Louis with a much younger man, calling himself "Schiatter." The older man posed as "Schiatter."

McLean was arrested in Des Moines, Ia., last June, on a charge preferred by a citizen of Clinton, Ia., that he had taken away a large sum of money entrusted to him for use in the healing work. He was suddenly arrested at Clinton in his ragged clothing when arrested he had $755 and three diamonds valued at $200 each.

"Schiatter and Schiatter" appeared in Los Angeles last winter and announced they had established the kingdom of the new Jerusalem on a South Sea island, and were going to convert the world.

Forty Thousand Demand Wage Increase and Clean Shop.

NEW YORK, October 21.—A strike of the 40,000 members of the New York Ladies' Waist Makers' Union for higher wages and recognition of the union was voted to-night at an executive meeting of the union.

The offer of L. E. Brown of $20,000 for the Seabrook property was rejected, on recommendation of the subcommittee, but the committee recommended that the old building be razed and the materials sold within ninety days.

Henry Cook, a former inmate of the jail, on recommendation of Dr. W. S. Gordon, who deems the position one of necessity, was appointed steward for the jail temporarily, until action is taken by the Legislature officially creating such a position.

Though there was some opposition, necessitating a recorded vote, the recommendation of the Buildings Committee was adopted in reference to keeping the control of the Committee on Grounds and Buildings. Other recommendations received and passed upon favorably were: To equip room 15, fourth floor of the City Hall, for the Assistant City Attorney, at a cost of $250; to remove the blinds in the Council chamber, replacing them with shades; selling the property on the northwest corner of Stuart Avenue and Littlepage Street at public auction.

This is a small lot, on which there is a one-story wooden house. For several years it was used as a schoolhouse, but has lately become useless for that purpose, as it is now of little practical value to the city.

SENATOR JOHNSON DEAD

Successors to Sudden Attack at Fargo, N. D., North Dakota.

FARGO, N. D., October 21.—United States Senator Martin N. Johnson, Republican, of this State, died to-night from an attack of acute nephritis at his hotel in this city.

A week ago he submitted to a second operation for a nasal trouble, and was thought to be recovering. He had been a sufferer from kidney disease for years, and had complained during the last two days, but reports to-day were reassuring. He was suddenly attacked late this afternoon, and death soon followed.

Senator Johnson was fifty-nine years old. His death leaves a vacancy to be filled by appointment by Governor Burk, a Democrat.

M'CARREN IS DYING

Reported at Hospital That He Could Hardly Survive the Night.

NEW YORK, October 21.—Following a consultation of physicians at Senator McCarren's bedside at midnight, the following bulletin was issued:

"Senator McCarren's condition is very grave."

The hospital authorities said that the patient's relapse was so serious as to make it doubtful whether he would survive the night.

Constipation and Appendicitis

The Latter Usually Caused by the Former, Which in Turn, Has Its Origin in Intestinal Indigestion.

Chronic constipation is a disease which is about as prevalent as dyspepsia and indigestion. Nearly every one suffers from it occasionally, but there are millions of people who endure it habitually, and who are accustomed to resort to the use of laxatives and cathartics.

Many people seemed to have developed a perfect mania for taking pills, and the habit of taking them has become a part of their daily life. The latent cause of the disease, and removing it by appropriate treatment, they are content to continue the reckless use of cathartics, aperients, drastic cathartics and violent purgatives, until finally inflammation of the bowels occurs, which reaches the appendix, and the result is appendicitis.

In investigating and tracing the causative factors of constipation and its frequent sequel, appendicitis, it has been noted by physicians that the majority of cases were preceded and accompanied by a long-standing gastro-intestinal indigestion.

The idea that appendicitis is brought on by foreign bodies, such as seeds, etc., becoming lodged in the appendix, is a exploded theory. It is now generally known that constipation is the most prolific cause of that dread disease, while the use of cathartics and purgatives, instead of removing the cause, only induces by intestinal indigestion, or amylose dyspepsia—the inability to digest starches—so the relation between constipation and the dread disease is direct and is readily seen and appreciated.

The absurdity of attempting to cure constipation by the use of pills should be apparent to every one. The active drugs and powerful purgatives will never cure a disease of this sort, and the use of cathartics and purgatives will only make the condition of the intestinal system.

A person with constipation and indigestion will never be annoyed with chronic constipation, and when this trouble exists, instead of plunging the system into pills, liquids, laxatives, cathartics, etc., use a remedy which will cure the gastro-intestinal indigestion, and the constipation will no longer bother you, and with its removal, the risk of developing appendicitis will be reduced to the minimum.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS have been the means of curing numerous cases of constipation by first curing the intestinal indigestion. They digest every kind of food, a single grain being capable of digesting 3,000 grains of food. They are powerful digestives, they also contain digestive, which converts starch into sugar, and readily cures amylose dyspepsia and intestinal indigestion.

If you are suffering from dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, or any one of any kind, don't run the risk of getting appendicitis, but strike at the cause of the trouble—the original cause—by using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which will quickly rid you of all functional disorders of the alimentary tract, from your druggist for 50c and send your name and address to the P. A. Michl, Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., for a free sample package.

REJECTS OFFER FOR WAREHOUSE

Committee Declines to Pass Hastily on Question of New City Jail.

At its meeting last night the Grounds and Buildings Committee was confronted with a mass of business from the Committee on Buildings, only a part of which was acted upon.

The report on the present City Jail, carrying with it the recommendation that the structure, being unfit for use both from a point of view of construction and sanitation, a new jail, with a Police Court attached, be constructed on the site of the old Seabrook Warehouse, was continued to the next meeting, as members thought it a question of too much importance to deal with hastily.

The offer of L. E. Brown of $20,000 for the Seabrook property was rejected, on recommendation of the subcommittee, but the committee recommended that the old building be razed and the materials sold within ninety days.

Henry Cook, a former inmate of the jail, on recommendation of Dr. W. S. Gordon, who deems the position one of necessity, was appointed steward for the jail temporarily, until action is taken by the Legislature officially creating such a position.

KILLED LEOPARD WITH BARE HANDS

Roosevelt Tells of Big Game Hunting Experience in Africa.

NEW YORK, October 21.—Theodore Roosevelt, writing in the November number of a monthly magazine, gives an account of his first encounters with big African game.

"My friend, Carl Akely, of Chicago, actually killed a leopard with his bare hands," he says. "He had already wounded the leopard twice, crippling one front and one hind paw, whenupon he charged and followed him as he tried to dodge the charge, and struck him full just as he turned. It bit him in one arm, biting again and again as it worked up the arm from the wrist to the elbow, but Akely threw it, holding its throat with the other hand, and flinging its body to one side. It luckily fell on its side with its two wounded legs up, and he fell forward with it and crushed its chest with his knee until he distinctly felt one of its ribs crack. This, said Akely, was the first moment when he felt he might conquer. Redoubling his efforts, with knees and hand, he actually choked and crushed the life out of it, although his arm was badly bitten."

Mr. Roosevelt devotes considerable space to telling how he brought to bay and finally killed a lion. The description begins at a point where he is hunting for a standing Aseba, his paw, considering that he should do it in the lion charges and cannot be stopped by a well-directed shot. The writer continues:

"Now an elderly man with a varied past, which includes rheumatism, does not vault lightly into the saddle, as his sons, for instance, can; and I had already made up my mind that in the event of the lion's charging, it would be a waste of time to try to straighten powder rather than to try to scramble into the saddle and get under way in time."

"I could not not see the lion when I knelt, but he was now standing up, looking first at one group of horses, then at the other, his tail lashing to and fro, his head held low and his lips dropped over his mouth in peculiar fashion, while his harsh and savage growling rolled thunderously over his plain, seeing him and me on foot, he turned toward us, his tail lashing quicker and quicker."

"Resting my elbow on Simba's breast, I took steady aim and pressed the trigger; the bullet went between the neck and shoulder, and the lion fell over on his side, one foreleg in the air. He recovered in a moment and stood up, evidently very sick and once more faced me, growling hoarsely. I think he was on the eve of charging. I fired again at once, and the bullet broke his back just behind the shoulders, and with the next I killed him outright, after we had gathered round him."

Mr. C. H. Dorset, of Woodland Heights, was operated on at the Memorial hospital; has improved and able to see friends.

GREAT CHURCH ONLY BIG NOISE FOR METHODISTS

Site Facing Lee Monument Already Purchased for Cathedral.

Plans for a cathedral Methodist church in the West End, on a lot facing Lee Monument, are under way, and already a large subscription has been procured for the undertaking.

The Methodists of the city have been engaged on the plans for some time, and have proceeded to the point of purchasing a lot on Allen Avenue fronting the famous monument. The site is the same as that which was formerly occupied by the old St. Paul's Battle Abbey, it fronts 160 feet on Park and Allen Avenues, and makes one of the most desirable locations in the city for a sacred edifice.

The new church, which the great cathedral will start at a Asbury Place Church, which agreed to sell its present lot on Hanover Avenue. This congregation has procured the site at Lee Monument.

It is planned to build a church which will cost in the neighborhood of $150,000. The chapel, which will cost between $30,000 and $40,000, will be built first. Work on this will be begun within a few months. The auditorium will be erected later.

When the chapel is completed, the Asbury Place congregation will move into the building, and give up its old chapel on Hanover Avenue.

All the Methodists in the city are enthusiastic about the new church, and before many years are passed there will be in the West End a great church which will be in harmony with the surrounding monuments.
